SPONSORS NEEDED FOR RAYTOWN ARTS & MUSIC FESTIVAL

The Raytown Parks is hosting the Raytown Arts and Music Festival August 26th at Kenagy Park (9608 E 79th ST, Raytown MO 64138), from 12:00PM - 7:00PM. We are looking for business sponsors in the $50 - $100 range for the event, and to cover the costs of our great music line up. The headlining band will be Brewer and Shipley who is celebrating their 50th Anniversary this year, along with the bands Keith Lad and The Wildwood Boys. We do already have sponsorships for the event from Dick Smith Ford, Fun House Pizza, Saber Cycle, Teetering Rock Golf Course, KCP&L and Raytown Lees Summit Credit Union. There is still time to support this great community event and get your business name on the sponsor banners. We hope to attract thousands of spectators who will appreciate the music and art that will be filling Kenagy Park on Saturday, August 26.

To get involved with this event, or to be a sponsor, contact the Raytown Parks Department by phone: 358 -4100, or by email: davel@raytownparks.com. This is going to be a big event in Raytown and we would love to have our local businesses show support by getting their business name on the sponsor banners and advertising that will go out to promote this awesome upcoming event.

The Southland Center for Advanced Professional Studies or Southland CAPS program is scheduled to launch in fall 2017. Southland CAPS will feature two different strands of learning opportunities for students during the 2017-2018 school-year, Animal Health Sciences and Technology Solutions. Each strand will better prepare students to meet the demands of the workforce. The CAPS model represents a collaboration between education, business, and community providing students with a unique and immersive experience.

Students in the Animal Health Sciences strand will travel to the Kansas City Zoo to learn from professionals about caring for and the health of large animals, marine animals, small animals, and service animals. Students will also dive into the broad scope of medical animal research and the ethics of animal testing. Students will meet each day in a room with viewing windows into the chimpanzee habitat.

The instructor for the Animal Health Sciences strand, Sara Sivils, has a wide-range of experience in working the areas of captive wild animal management, animal science, biology, fisheries, and wildlife. Sivils is an experienced educator and earned her Master of Arts in Teaching from Lindenwood University in St. Charles, Missouri.

Students in the Technology Solutions strand will have the opportunity to learn from professionals about computer networking, CIS and software development, website and app creation, and more. The Technology Solution strand will be located in the same building as the Raytown Schools Technology Department in the Raytown Schools Education and Conference Center.

The instructor for the Technology Solutions strand, Brenda Schaefer, has been teaching courses in Computer Science, hardware and software application, and other business related topics for the past 30 years. She is also experienced in teaching multiple programming languages. In addition to teaching, she has also worked for businesses in the private sector. Schaefer earned her master's degree in Instructional Design and Technology at Emporia State University in Emporia, Kansas.

More than 30 students have been accepted to Southland CAPS. School districts participating in CAPS program include Belton School District, Hickman Mills School District, Raymore-Peculiar School District, and Raytown School District.

Different from the vocational-technical education model, the CAPS model creates a unique opportunity for districts to reach students and to help them discover and prepare for their passions in life without duplicating or competing with pre-existing programs. Partnerships with other CAPS programs will provide students with networking opportunities and the chance to collaborate on projects with other students across the metro.

"The CAPS experience is such an innovative way for students to learn," Katie Zeiger, Coordinator of the Southland CAPS program, said. "Students will work with industry partners hands-on, learning more about problem-solving and meeting deadlines. They will essentially be test-driving their future careers to see if it is a good fit for them."

Companies and organizations from around the Kansas City metro have committed to being business partners with Southland CAPS or who support the program and are interested in becoming mentors, guest speakers, hosting internship/job shadowing experiences, or simply cheering on our development partners include American Royal, Bayer, Connections to Success, Economic Development for Jackson County, Fishtech, FitBark, H&H Color Lab, Kansas City Animal Life Science Institute, Kansas City Royals, Kansas City Startup Foundation, Kansas City Zoo, KC Animal Health Corridor, KC Digital Drive, KC Smartport, KC SourceLink, Lakeside Nature Center, Maple Woods Veterinary Technology, Missouri Conservation Department, Mozilla, Raymore Chamber of Commerce, Raytown Chamber of Commerce, Raytown School District Technology Department, Raytown-Gregory Animal Health Center, SEALIFE Aquarium, South Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, Stone Amp SEO, The Business Journals, University of Missouri – College of Veterinary Medicine, Wayside Waifs, and William Jewell College.

"For some time, we felt that students south of the river were missing a valuable resource for career education planning and were at a disadvantage in comparison with their peers who had the opportunity to participate in CAPS programs," Raytown Superintendent Dr. Allan Markley said. "We decided to lead the charge to give our students a similar experience and knew that our colleagues in surrounding districts would support our effort to bring CAPS to the Southland. We are very excited to say that this is finally happening."

Southland CAPS will operate as an extension of the Raytown School District's Herndon Career Center.

For more information about Southland CAPS, please visit <http://southlandcaps.yourcapsnetwork.org/> or follow Southland CAPS on Twitter: @SouthlandCAPS.

COMCAST NBCUNIVERSAL AWARDS $16,000 IN SCHOLARSHIPS TO KANSAS CITY AREA HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS

Comcast announced it has awarded $16,000 in scholarships for the 2017-18 school year to 12 suburban Kansas City area students as part of its annual Leaders and Achievers® Scholarship Program. The program, funded by the Comcast Foundation, recognizes the best and brightest high school seniors for their community service, academic performance and leadership skills.

“Our Leaders and Achievers scholarship winners exemplify leadership and are committed to academic excellence and community service,” said Ron Orlando, vice president, Comcast External Affairs. “We are honored to recognize their achievements and excited to support them as they continue their educational journeys.”

A number of state legislators from Missouri and Kansas, as well as local civic and education officials, joined Comcast in recognizing the students at a special reception held Wednesday, June 14. Eleven recipients each received a $1,000 Leaders & Achievers Scholarship award; in addition, Jordan Atkins, a graduate of Raytown High School, was awarded a $5,000 Comcast Founders scholarship, named in honor of Ralph J. Roberts, Founder and Chairman Emeritus of Comcast Corporation.

The Comcast Leaders and Achievers program provides scholarships to students who strive to achieve their full potential, who are catalysts for positive change in their communities, who are involved in their schools, and who serve as models for their fellow students. The philosophy behind the program is to give young people every opportunity to prepare for the future and to engage them in their communities. The program also demonstrates the importance of civic involvement, and the value placed on civic involvement by the business community.

This year, the program will award more than $2 million in scholarships to more than 2,000 students across the country to help them pursue higher education. Jordan Atkins; graduated Raytown High School; attending Oklahoma Baptist University, Shawnee, Okla.
